IS THE STATE TAX COMMISSION A FAILURE? ASKS ELY EDITOR

For some time past there have been rumors that the state tax commission has been roped, branded and ear marked by the cattlemen's association, but the Ely Record declares it was loth to believe any such rumors. However, it is now noted by exchanges that instructions have gone out to the various county assessors of the state to assess all cattle, including yearlings, on the first Monday in March. As practically all calves are born after that date, the increase of last year's herds will be exempt from taxation this year, and as most of them will be sold before March next, it is apparent that fully thirty per cent of the cattle of the state will be exempt from taxation. In addition to this it is claimed that assessors are instructed to allow a range loss of 25 per cent, and then to tax the remainder of the herds at from $18 to $20 per head. In other words, from 55 to 65 per cent are released from taxation and the remainder assessed at less than half of their real value.

If the ruling as stated above has actually been made by the state tax commission, it is clearly contrary to the statutes, which provide that all property shall stand its just proportion of taxation. The tax commission was created for the purpose of equalizing taxes, as it was a conceded fact, notorious for years past, that cattle owners and large landed interests in Elko, Humboldt, Washoe, Douglas and Churchill counties had been shirking their taxes to such an extent that the matter was a state scandal.

The claim is made by the cattlemen's association that it represents either the first, or at least the second industry of importance in the state, which is probably correct, but tax records do not bear out the statement. Small property owners, especially the farmer and the man who owns a humble home in some town or village, has stood the brunt of taxation in Nevada about long enough, hence the creation of the tax commission, which made a blanket raise in some counties last year of 10 per cent. This was bad enough, but the people stood for it without much protest, believing that the commission this year would get down to business and make an equal assessment on all property.

Assessors are instructed to value sheep, including lambs, at $2, which appears to be reasonable and fair, but in this instance there is no provision made that the lamb must be a year old, as is the case with the cattleman. Hogs are to be assessed at $10 and pigs at $5, with no limit on the age of the pig, as is the case with the yearling calf. The hog and the pig is usually the property of the small rancher, who always has and probably always will stand the brunt of taxation. According to this ruling a sow and a litter of pigs will be assessed from $50 to $70, while the cattleman gets off with just about one-fifth of the value of his herds.

The ruling will not affect White

Schlitz in Brown Bottles is pure and wholesome

No disagreeable odor or taste that scientists find in beer in light bottles.

"It is interesting to note the observation that beer in colorless bottles exposed to diffused light will undergo a change, precipitating a heavy sediment and taking on a disagreeable odor and taste."

Extract from Die Theorie und Praxis der Mischungsverfahren und Bierfabrikation, Published by Director Julius E. Thoma, Leipzig, 1893, Fourth Edition, page 920.

This opinion was rendered impartially and in the interest of science.

The slightest taint of impurity ruins the healthfulness of beer.
